only Oue Sent in the Jury Box Vacant When Court Adjourned for the Bay - Examination of Talesmon a Most Searching One Some of the Questions That Bowled Aspirants Over. When Part L, General Sessions, adjourned yesterday there was still a vacant seat in the jury box, as only eleven jurors had been obtained to try the officers of the American Tobacco Company, who are charged with violating the Anti-Trust law by conspiring to monopolise the cigar-ette business in this city. The brilliant array of legal talent, led on the one side by Joseph H. Choate and on the other by District Attorney Olcott, was drawn up in line immediately after court opened. Four jurors had been obtained or penetrated into the mysteries of the jurymen's amined yesterday. He said he resided at 128 Eighteenth street and was a travelling salesman for a Japanese silk house. He was permitted to ake the twelfth seat in the jury box.

but they were disappointed, disappointing them selves by asking lengthy questions that ever

Joseph Marion, a retired fron merchant, who lives at 320 East 126th street, was accepted as the sixth juror, notwithstanding the objection Lawyer Rollins, who challenged Marion on

Thomas Davis, who said he was a stonecutter and had worked on the Capitol building in Albany, was called. Do you use cigarettes ?" asked Mr. Rollins. "No, sir," said Mr. Davis; "I leave them bings for the dudes." "What club do you belong to, if any, or what political party?" asked Mr. Choate. "I belong to the Excelsior Republican Club, the same as yourself," was the answer.

Q .- How long have you worked on the Capito milding ! A .- Ten years off and on. at times for some good Republicans to make Q.-How long have you been idle now! A .-About eight months.

Q.-Then you'd like a job on this jury! A .- I Q .- Do you know how much jury duty pays A.-I heard it was $2 a day.
Q.-If chosen here, how would you decide ase! A.-On my conscience and on the evi Q.-You wouldn't mind what the Judge might say! A .- Well, if I was ordered to I would, for it might be bad to disobey him. Bad for a man's Q .- You say you are not working; how do you manage to get along ! A .-- My children support me; the girls all got good jobs.

Mr. Davis was challenged and stepped down to make room for Richard Maguire, a travelling slesman residing at 122 West Ninetieth street. Mr. Maguire had formed no opinion and be hered he could decide a case on the law and fact.

He was accepted as the seventh juror. Daniel R. Hodgins, a clerk for the United States Express Comany, residing at 368 West Sizies Express Comany, residing at 368 West 129th street, stood the ordeal of questioning and took the eighth seat in the jury box.

Charles E. Knox, an electrical engineer of 150 Assau street, said he had formed an opinion on the rights of trusts, but could throw it aside if called to act as a juror. Mr. Choate did not want him. Mr. Olcott did. Mr. Choate got him to admit that he had a feeling against trusts, the talesman adding: "I mean the kind that crush their rivals."

the talesman adding: "I mean the kind that crush their rivals."

"You have talked against trusts and large corporations and the accumulation of large sums of money, haven'tyou' asked Mr. Choate. "I have," said Knox.

Q-And you would like to have a law against them! A.—I would.

Mr. Choate challenged the talesman on the grand of being blased in his opinion, but Judge fitther and said Knox would make an impartial zeror. Mr. Knox took the ninth seat in the jury tor, and Mr. Choate took an exception.

Barnet Brisk, a wall paper manufacturer who said he had retired from business, was excused, and so was Peter Donohue, a saloon keeper of 113 West street. Paul Bernhardt was then talled and camined. He said he was in the greety business, having a store at 2031 Third arenue and another at 2151 Third avenue.

"Where do you buy your sugar?" asked Mr. Choate.

"I don't buy any," answered the grocer.

"Where do you buy your sugar!" asked Mr.

Q-You don't buy any! A.—No, sir.

Q-Do you understand what I say—what I sean! Where do you buy your sugar! A.—I said I don't buy any sugar.

Q-What! You keep a grocery store and don't buy sugar! A.—That's what I said.

Q-Don't you sell it in any of your grocery stores! A.—No, sir; there's no profit in it, so I quit handling it.

Mr. Bernhardt said he had no feeling against truets, and was accepted as the tenth juror.

John Durr, an upholsterer, of 382 Tenth arenue, was called, and answered questions satisfactorij until Mr. Choate dug into his domestic lite. Mr. Durr said he did not own $250 worth of property, but had twelve children. Mr. Choate objected to having a juryman who did not own $250 worth of property.

"Well," said District Attorney Oloott, "he who did not own $250 worth of property.

"Well," said District Attorney Olcott, "he owns tweive children, and I'm sure they are worth $250. I'm satisfied that this man would make a fair juryman."

But Mr. Choate again objected, and Mr. Durr was excused.

Frederick G. Brewater, a candy manufacturer of 236 West Fourteenth street, said he sold his goods to department stores, and did not buy sugar from any one connected with the American Sugar Refining Company. He was accepted as Jaror No. 11, not withstanding the District Attorney's objections.

The twelfth juror will be obtained to-day, and the taking of testimony will probably begin this afternoon, unless the logal talent bowl the eleven jurors out of the box with peremptory challenges and start in anow to get a jury.

DYNAMITE TRIAL CLOSING.

Important Testimony Given in Rebuttal in th

BLOOMSBURG, Pa., June 9.—Rebuttal was the order of the day in the Wintersteen dynamite trial this afternoon. The reputations of several witnesses were aired also. When court opened at 2 o'clock the prosecution continued their rebattal by attempting to prove by several witgood, while that of Mr. and Mrs. Phillipi, two witnesses for the defence, was questionable. E. B. Tustin, cashier of the First National Bank, testified that Mr. Wintersteen said to him, a few days after the explosion, that he had seen a man standing at the corner of Sloan's alley with a revolver or a knife in his hand, and that he was uttering threats against Mr. Waller. He said that he tried to persuade the man to give said that he tried to persuade the man to give up his intentions of harming Waller. Mr. Wintersteen, when asked about the matter in the cross-examination, had said that he could not recall such a conversation.

The most important witness of the day and seed the most important in the case was Elizabsh Jacobi, a clerk in the Post Office. She testified that Wintersteen had written fifty or more letters in the last five or six years to Miss bora Moharter. This was a flat contradiction of both Wintersteen and the Moharter girl's testimony, both having sworn that only two communications had passed between them in the past nine years. The cross-examination failed to shake her testimony. It had been expected that Senator Grant Herring would give some interesting testimony in regard to Wintersteen's struggle with a woman on the night of July 1, 1896. [Mr. Graham announced that, after a consultation with the defence, it had been spreed that, in view of the fact that Senator Germing had taken such an active part in the prosecution of the case, he would not testify, and that both sides had agreed that the fact of his not testifying should not again be mentioned by either side.

Mr. Waller was recalled and testified that he als not testifying should not again be mentioned by either side.

Mr. Waller was recalled and testified that he had taken part in the equity proceedings, making an important address before the Court, thus contradicting Wintersteen's statement that "he sere opened his head." In view of the fact that the reputation of Theodore Hayman and Jacob Philipi, two of the witnesses for the defence, had been assalled, about a dozen witnesses were salled who testified that they were men whose character they had never heard questioned. Starly all the witnesses for the defence in rebattal had been heard when court adjourned to-aight. In all probability the closing speeches will be made during to-morrow's session.
